February Shoot Notes

This is the year for the Winter Olympics in Vancouver. I think we have more snow than they do. It's made for some good shoots anyway. Some days it's easy to stay indoors if there's not something to get you moving. I'm thankful for these winter shoots.

The first Feb shoot was in the middle of a winter storm warning. We still had over twenty shooters. The woods looked great with all the snow in the trees.

The second shoot the snow was even deeper, but I guess cabin fever was taking hold because we had forty-five shooters. The snow really made you concentrate on the targets because a miss was the same as a lost arrow. I'll bet the snow will be gone for the March shoots. Then I can replenish my quiver by getting back some of my arrows. Maybe that's why they only have archery in the summer Olympic Games.

Thanks to Dennis for the shoot info!

Ron McDonald, Ronald Nixe, Charlie Bolen, and Bud Bolen are the range officers this year. Step up and lend a hand if you can, just see one of these fine fellows and they'll point you in the right direction. This can be long days for the folks that set the targets. They can always use your help.
